Novocure® partners with Advarra® to support the Humanitarian Use Device (HUD) submission for Optune Lua™

Advarra is an independent IRB, with over 3,000 partner institutions nationwide

- Pursuing IRB approval through Advarra offers the potential for a quicker review, and seamless electronic submission
- Novocure will cover the fees for the HUD application IRB submission, review, and approval
  - Novocure will pay these fees regardless of whether Advarra grants approval or not

How to leverage Advarra for a HUD submission

STEP 1:
Contact your Novocure representative to confirm if your institution has an established partnership with Advarra

STEP 2:
Institutions with an Advarra partnership may begin registration and submission of the HUD application online at www.cirbi.net

- To ensure your invoice is sent directly to Novocure, please enter the following information into the payment field in the IRB application:

  Denise Lovett
  Manager, Accounts Payable, Novocure
  dlovett@novocure.com
  (603) 389-2149
  Purchase order number: 4500052074

Institutions without an Advarra partnership will need to establish a contract with Advarra. Your Novocure representative can provide information on next steps.

- Note: If you have a local IRB or Office of Human Research Protection, you will first need to notify them to complete any local requirements prior to submitting materials to Advarra
  - If an institution has an IRB in place already, this IRB must first approve the use of Advarra

If you have any questions about the Advarra partnership, please reach out to your Novocure representative for assistance
